SUPER QUACK'S THANKSGIVING

Most people eat turkey for Thanksgiving, but others eat duck. That was Super Quack's problem; he was a duck. What I mean is that people wanted to kill him and eat him for Thanksgiving dinner. For some strange reason he didn't like this.

As he was flying over a pond, a couple of hunters shot at him, but they missed because he ducked. (Pun intended.) He kept on flying and one of the hunters gave up the chase, so the one left was a hunt. Suddenly, Super Quack flew down and bit a tomato off a tomato plant. Flying back into the air he dropped it on the hunt's head and attacked him, aiming for the hunt's tomato sauce. After that he had no more Thanksgiving problems.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Sir:

You were so kind to answer my letter about my grandson Fauntleroy last year, that I thought you would like to know what progress the brilliant child has made. He was going to sell some articles he wrote to finance his own magazine. It was very discouraging when he received six rejection slips from various publishers on his article about "Einstein's Theory for Six Year Olds." Also, his paper on "Solar Energy for Moles' Homes" did not sell. The physical part of the job was difficult in that it required two hours in the doctor's office to remove the staples from his hands. We are not sure how he managed to staple both hands together, but the stapler may have been too large.

For now, Fauntleroy has given up being an editor and has decided to be a truck driver.

FAUNTLEROY IS A JERK. WHO WANTS TO BE A DUMB TRUCK DRIVER? I HOPE HE DRIVES OVER HIS OWN FOOT. DO YOU POSSIBLY THINK HE'D LET ME READ HIS ARTICLE "EINSTEIN'S THEORY FOR SIX YEAR OLDS."? THERE WOULD PROBABLY BE SOME THINGS IN IT THAT I COULD USE. BUT YOU SHOULD TELL THE LITTLE TWIRP THAT MOLES DON'T USE SOLAR ENERGY. THEY USE WINDMILLS. THANKS FOR YOUR LETTER.

Dear Sir: Whenever I get your Funzine in the mail, it's all wet. I mean, it's got water all over it. What do you think causes this?

MAYBE IT'S THE POSTAGE DEW.

Dear Sir: Who would be dumb enough to write a letter to Bruce's Funzine? You have to be an absolute idiot even to pay any attention to it.

WATCH YOUR MOUTH. BECAUSE I'VE WRITTEN TO THIS MAGIZINE, AND YOU DON'T THINK I'M DUMB, DO YOU?
